H. E. DONALDSON,

THE WONDERS OF A WATCH.

Very few who carry a watch ever think of the unceasing labor it performs under what would be considered shabby treatment by any other machinery.

There are many who think that a watch ought to run for years without cleaning or a drop of oil. Read this and judge for yourself. The main wheel in an ordinary American watch makes four (4) revolutions a day of 24 hours, or 1,460 in a year. Next the center wheel 24 revolutions in a day, or 8,760 in a year. The third wheel 192 in a day, or $59,080 in a year. The fourth wheel 2,440 in a day, or 545,600 in a year. The fifth, or escape wheel 12,960 in a day, or 4,728,300 in a year. The ticks or beats are 388,800 in a day or 141,812,000 in a year.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Jones, while in Chicago last week, stopped with George K. Reynolds and found our former citizen in a prosperous condition.

—A. J. Martin, of La Grange, Oregon, arrived here last night. This former Dixon Boy is employed in the Supply Department of the Union Pacific railway of that place.

—Mrs. J. P. Meserole came out from Chicago last night, accompanied by Mrs Samuel Curtis, of Meridan, Conn., a sister of Mr. Meserole and cousin of Joseph Howell.

—The Bedal Institute is getting into running shape at its new quarters in Sterling, and its patients, varying in age from the twenties up into the fifties, are being successfully shot.

—About six o'clock Saturday night a fire was discovered in the Church paper mill at Rock Falls, the result of spontaneous combustion. The fire was confined to the one room and, by the fire department of the twin cities, was soon extinguished with but little damage.

—Mrs. M. Jordan and daughter, Miss Augusta, have returned from a couple of weeks visit at the World's Fair, accompanied by their friend, Miss Nettie Donahue of Chicago who will spend a few weeks as their guests in this city.

—Mrs. Mary Hilles, of East Fourth street, while out driving this morning was taken with a violent hemorrhage of the nose and went for relief into the A. K. Trusdell residence on Third street, where she remained for the day. Dr. Brown was called and soon checked the bleeding. The lady had a slight attack of the same trouble last night.

—The Freeport Journal says that the display of pearls taken from the Pecatonica and Sugar Rivers, on exhibition in the Wisconsin corner of the Mines and Mining building at the World's Fair, is valued at $120,000. In the case will be pearls of all the colors of the rainbow, and surrounding them will be the clam shells, highly polished, from which the pearl is taken. The black pearl the most rare and valuable, will be shown side by side with the dahlia, pink, and white pearls. There are also many "slugs" or imperfect pearls, which, though not so valuable, will be looked upon by the uninitiated in pearl values with as much interest as the more valuable jewels. Many of these "slugs" are of peculiar formation, some resembling a perfectly shaped hand with the index finger extended, while others are shell-shaped, and many others are strangely formed.

—The Freeport Democrat in mentioning the visit of Amos Foster of JoDaviess Co. one of the earliest settlers of Illinois, now nearly 90 years of age, tells the following story of the price of pork in '43, at which time Mr. Foster was a resident of Ottawa. In the fall of that year he drove 125 fine hogs to Chicago and found it impossible to sell them at any price. Dressed pork sold at one and one half cents per pound and the market was glutted. He had about decided to drive his hogs into the lake, when a friendly packer made him a proposition which resulting in the slaughter of the hogs, the sale of the lard for five cents a pound the hams at two cents apiece and the shoulders at a cent each; the rest of the meat was taken by the butcher as pay for the killing.

—A scientist has figured out that wheat from the time it is threshed will shrink two quarts to the bushel, or six per cent in six months, even under the most favorable circumstances. Hence it follows that 84 cents per bushel for wheat when threshed in August is as good as $1 the following February. Corn shinks much more from the time it is husked. One hundred bushels of ears as they come from the field in November will be reduced to not far from eighty. So 40 cents a bushel for corn in the ear as it comes from the field is as good as 50 cent the next March. Potatoes shrink so much that there is little doubt that between October and the next spring the loss to the owner who holds them will not be much less than 25 per cent.

—The tramp crop is beginning to ripen.

—Rev. Linebarger was in our city today.

—Mrs. Dennis J. Denny returned home from Chicago last night.

—G. G. Rosbrook, with wife, daughter and grand-daughter, returned home last night.

—Charles Plein went to Sterling today and brought home the mare he purchased at Sanborn's sale last week.

—Trim your tomato vines after the fruit begins to form, if you would increase the size of the fruit and the weight of the crop.

—Mrs. O. B. Blackman and daughters went to Chicago this morning to join their husband and father, who has been in the city a number of days.

—A gang of plasterers working for Smith & Williams struck and caused some excitement while telling their grievances on First street this morning.

—It hardly seems possible, but it is said to be true, that the people of this country convert into smoke and juice annually six hundred million dollars worth of tobacco.

—The family of Abe Rutt, whose home at Prairieville was consumed at an early hour Sunday morning, as mentioned in THE TELEGRAPH last night, have taken temporary possession of the school house.

—Thomas Galt of Sterling has been appointed a delegate to the World's Congress of Bankers and Financiers, soon to meet in Chicago. Matters of peculiar interest to the financial world, especially of the United States under its present strain, will be discussed at this congress.

—We have received a communication from Frank G. Carpenter, of Washington, D. C., the world-wide traveler, artist-lecturer and newspaper correspondent, desiring to make a date in this city for his new lecture, a wonderful portrait talk on "The Men and Women I have interviewed, or the queer experiences of a newspaper man." If any of our college literary societies or the "Assembly" people desire something that would be really attractive, we would be pleased to present the matter to their consideration.

—We enjoyed a pleasant call from Dr. G. W. Phillips yesterday, who with his wife, son and daughter-in-law, are on their way home to La Junta, Colorado. The doctor and his family left Dixon for the West in 1872, more than a score of years ago, and is much pleased with the prosperous change in appearance of his old home. La Junta is a wide awake city of 3,000 inhabitants, the county seat of Otero county, and Rufus Phillips, the doctor's son, conducts the leading journal of that flourishing portion of the state, The La Junta Tribune; another example of a Dixon boy making his influential mark upon western civilization.

—From the Aurora News is clipped the following: Rockford church circles are in a terrible turmoil because the leading minister of that city, Rev. P. H. Swift, preached an eloquent sermon last Sunday strongly advocating the opening of the Fair on Sundays, and it is possible he will be brought to trial for his heretic utterances. In the course of his sermon he said: "If you go to the fair on the Sabbath and conduct yourself properly, no harm can come of it. It is a beautiful place and reflects God's glorious work. It should be seen by all and we should put no embargo in theis way." Dr. Swift is one of the leading ministers of the West, conscientious and fearless in the course that seems right to him.

—Dr. James L Camp takes with him to his Minnesota ranch, near Brainard, some valuable animals purchased for him by James McCune, of Sterling, at the recent sale of the Larchwood stud. The Gazette, in describing this purchase, says: "In the lot is Benevolence, a beautiful dark bay three-year-old stallion handsomely built, endowed with an extra pedigree and with great promise of speed. Goldfoil, another bay youngster of two years, marked off with dark points. His sire is Williams, whose record for speed finds promise of lowering in this son, who has a Kentucky dam to back him. Karnea is a bay filly, and a most attractive one in appearance, for though most kind has graceful, alert ways. Terea comes of the best blood, having Benefactor as sire and Lollins as dam, in which she catches the best breeding extant. She is a bright, bay filly, with white marks. Artallo was sired by Capoal, clean cut in every particular, favoring much her sire in disposition and gait, she had been retained by Mr. Sanborn as a worthy continuer of her splendid race. Ashphodel completes the number bought in for this northern farm. She has demonstrated by her colts her superior breeding tendency, is now with foal and will be kept by Dr. Camp solely as a brood mare."

—In the van of the strong and attractive table of contents of the June number of The North American Review is an able and timely article entitled "The Lesson of the Naval Review," by the Hon. Hilary A. Hurbert, Secretary of the Navy, whose position gives him the right to speak authoritatively. He contends that if the United States would keep her own peace with all nations and maintain her place in the vanguard of civilization, she must at all times be prepared for war. The question "Who Are the Greatest Wealth Producers?" is answered by W. H. Mallock, the well-known author of "Is Life Worth Living," and other works. "A Look Ahead" is the title of an important article by Andrew Carnegie, which is certain to attract considerable attention both at home and abroad, by reason of the subject of which it treats—the possible reunion of the United States and Great Britain. The Rev. Dr. Rainsford answers inquiries and criticisms regarding his plan for dealing with the saloon question, which he explained in his article on "Possible Reformation of the Drink Tariff" in the May number of The Review. The Notes and Comments include four very readable papers: "Christ as an Orator," by T. Alexander Hyde; "A Farmer's View of Free Coinage," by Newton L. Bunnell; "The Art of Living Two Hundred Years," by William Kinnear, and "Inebriety from a Medical Standpoint," by Dr. E. F. Arnold

SPIRIT OF THE MOB

It Breaks Out in the National Capitol's Shadow.

RIOTOUS SCENE AT THE INQUEST

On the Ford's Theatre Disaster—Clerk's Raise the Cry "Hang Him;" and Make a Rush for Colonel Ainsworth—Attempt to Deprive Him of the Right to Face His Accusers—The Colonel's Cool Demeaner—Testimony Taken—Indignation Meeting.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The American mob spirit seems everywhere—even under the shadow of the Capitol of the country that holds itself up as the example and model of the civilization of the ninteenth century and of whose citizens "Joe" Chamberlain—not having read the papers while here—said that what most impressed him was their "reverence" for law and order. For the fact is that there was a mob in nearly all that the name implies in the coroner's court during the examination of witnesses in the Ford's theatre buildings case.

Thompson Not a Good Witness.

The inquest was held in Willard hall, and as a matter of course Colonel Ainsworth, who has been accused by people who are quick to accuse of being the man responsible for the disaster, was there. The very fact that he had been accused gave him the right to be there—especially as his accusers were present also. Dr. Schaeffer, the deputy coroner of the District, conducted the inquest. The jury, which was sworn in Saturday, consisted of B. H. Warner, C. I. Kellogg, J. A. Sibley, Frank L. Hanvey, William Ayre, Jr., and Charles F. Schneider, and included architects and builders. One of the principal and most vigorous witnesses was Smith Thompson, but he was a poor witness, too, for his hatred of Colonel Ainsworth was entirely too visible, and it was he who bitterly denounced the Colonel at a meeting held the night of the disaster.

Testimony of Some Witnesses.

Benjamin Reiss, a clerk in the building, had heard talk of the building being dangerous. Charles Troutman, another clerk, had been warned not to go on a certain portion of the floor, but never heard of any protest going to the authorities on that account. Then came Smith Thompson. He had heard warnings about the safety of the building "frequently, frequently," said he. Servants on the stairway, stationed there by Colonel Ainsworth, had warned the clerks to go easily up the stairs. Concerning the one stairway in the theatre building Mr. Thompson said it was not sufficient for the rapid exit of one-half of the clerks with safety. In going down the stairway he had heard clerks to call out: "Take care; the stairs are unsafe."

Bitter Feeling Against Ainsworth.

Just at this stage in Thompson's testimony there was a strange scene illustrating a bitter feeling against Colonel Ainsworth. A majority of the spectators present at the inquest were clerks who were employed in the old theatre building. Mr. Warner, one of the jurors, asked the witness what was the feeling of clerks in the theatre building towards their superior officer, Colonel Ainsworth.

"That of abject fear" answerd Thompson, impressively.

A slight buzz and shifting of chairs followed; then a slight clapping of hands. A lieutenant of police present held up his hand to stop the attempt at applause, but he was too late. A burst of hand clapping followed that lasted a quarter of a minute. It came from the portion of the room where most of the clerks were sitting.

A Little Jail Seems Needful.

Then in reply to questions from juror Warner as to whether the clerks were afraid that if they mentioned the dangerous condition of the building they would be discharged—if there was that feeling of fear, Thompson answered fervently, "It was, it was," and that it even extended to Jacob Frech, Colonel Ainsworth's "right bower," as Thompson called him. And just then came a note from Colonel Lamont, secretary of war, which would seem to have made it quite practicable for protests to have been made without a man losing his place. Lamont's note simply said that he was informed that the impression existed that clerks would testify at their peril. Of course this was not so, and he gave his word that no employe of the department need fear to tell the truth.

Testimony on the Other Side.

Carter, another clerk, had heard that the building was unsafe. D. H. P. Brown was fearful of replying to a question as to the danger of protesting against working in the building, not on account of Colonel Ainsworth, who had done him two favors, but of Mr. Frech. He finally replied that clerks feared discharge if they protested. Then J. H. Smith, another clerk, had heard of the danger of the building. The gas escaped and clerks protested, and Colonel Ainsworth, instead of demanding their official heads in a charger, had gone to the building to investigate. No clerk who had protested had been discharged. He also contradicted other witnesses by saying that everybody in the building had confidence in Colonel Ainsworth. Any feeling that might have been developed was not directed to Colonel Ainsworth, but to other officials—particularly Jacob Freech. The talk against Colonel Ainsworth had been confined to a few "old soreheads."

OUTBREAK OF THE MOB SPIRIT.

Attempt to Drive Col. Ainsworth from Facing His Accusers.

James A. Long believing the building to be insecure had been assured by several clerks that there was no danger. He had, however, secured leave of absence and insured his life. Albert N. Crosby, a third floor clerk, was not allowed to finish his testimony. While he was being examined a man walked slowly to a place behind Colonel Ainsworth's chair and said something in such a loud voice that it brought a warning "sh—h" from some of those present. But the man was not to be hushed. He stepped forward, and standing behind and directly over Colonel Ainsworth cried in a voice trembling with passion: "You murdered my brother, and I'd like to know what right you have to sit here and intimidate witnesses."

The coolness of Colonel Ainsworth at this moment was noticeable. He sat calmly in his chair and did not even turn his head to see who it was denounced him. It was Charles G. Banes, brother of one of the clerks who was killed. The reply of the clerks present to this outbreak was prompt: "That's right; he did it," from some, and "Put him out," from others. And then came the attempt to deprive Colonel Ainsworth of being present to face his accusers. It was stated by Juror Warner that the best means of silencing these outbreaks was—not to bounce the men who thus interrupted a court of justice—but to require the absence of the person accused because, in the face of Colonel Lamont's note, he intimated the witnesses.

Colonel Ainsworth absolutely declined to withdraw in spite of the applause that followed Warner's remarks, in which he "mentioned no names," and the coroner told the jury that Colonel Ainsworth had a right there and he (the coroner) had no right to exclude him. Juror Hanvey said he had been told by half a dozen clerks that they had been afraid to testify and would have refused to do so but for the letter of the secretary of war.

Mr. R. Ross Perry, as the representative of Colonel Ainsworth, arose to make some remarks on the subject and his first word was a signal for the most exciting incident of the day. Butler Fitch, an old white-haired clerk of the record and pension division, started the trouble. "Sit down," he shouted, "you are an outsider and have no right here. I protest against an outsider speaking here."

"Sit down; sit down," echoed his fellow clerks in voices that were not restrained. Fitch cried out something about "murder," and his words were echoed from every part of the hall. Record and pension division clerks were on their feet trying to make speeches, as though a public meeting was being held. All this time Mr. Perry stood immovable, and when the uproar had quieted somewhat he appealed to the crowd to let him speak.

"I appeal to you as American citizens for fair play," he cried. "You didn't give us fair play," yelled an excited individual.

Old Butler Fitch kept crying: "No intimidation." Morgan Spencer, of Bridgeport, Ala., another government clerk, called out at Colonel Ainsworth: "You should be arrested for murder and not released on bail."

Here the tempest broke in its full fury. "Hang him!" was shouted from a dozen throats. Every man in the spectators' seats rose at the cry, "Hang him! hang him!" The shouts grew louder.

Colonel Ainsworth sat cool and collected. Somebody said after the uproar was over that his hand moved to his inside coat pocket and remained there. His features seemed absolutely immovable. There was the faintest suggestion of a smile on his lips.

Mr. Perry remained standing, but made no attempt to quell the mob, for it had grown to be such. A mad rush had just begun in the direction of Colonel Ainsworth, when Mr. Warner arose, and standing on his chair begged for order.

WARNER APPEALS FOR FAIR PLAY.

The Court Adjourns and the Clerks Hold an Indignation Meeting.

The sight of him standing stopped the rush. Dr. Shaeffer directed Mr. Warner to take his seat, but the latter refused, and raising his voice managed to make himself heard. His first words brought quiet.

"This outbreak of feeling must be suppressed," he said. "Not by the strong hand of the law, but by the hand of fraternity. [Applause.] I appeal to you to have fair play as American citizens and not to stain the fair name of the glorious capital of the republic. I appeal to you in the name of the Master who reigns above."

The crowd fell into Mr. Warner's way of thinking and cried, "Yes." He saw his advantage, and made an appeal to let the question of allowing Colonel Ainsworth to remain to be settled by cool heads.

When he took his seat, however, there were more threatening mutterings, and at 3:20 p. m. Dr. Shaeffer quickly adjourned the inquest until 10 o'clock this morning. The department clerks stood about the hall talking excitedly over the incident. Colonel Ainsworth sat in his chair for a minute, and then walked quietly out of the building through a side door connected with Willard's hotel. When the hall was emptied the excited language of the clerks continued on the sidewalk, and finally Butler Fitch mounted the entrance steps of the building and proposed an indignation meeting immediately. The proposition was adopted, and the clerks took possession of the hall.

Smith Thompson who made many bitter remarks against Colonel Ainsworth and Jacob Frech in his testimony, was chairman of the meeting and bitter denunciations of Colonel Ainsworth, and of those who justified his course were indulged in. A committee consisting of Smith Thompson, W. N. Sayre, B. Fitch, Percy Monroe and M. M. Jarvis, was appointed to wait upon the president and protest against the proposed secret session and to urge the suspension of Colonel Ainsworth, pending the investigation. Subsequently it was said that the inquest would resumed under better police arrangements.

OUR BLUE JACKETS IN NICARAGUA.

The People of that Country Not at All Pleased.

NEW YORK, June 13.—A special to The World from Managua, Nicaragua, says: The landing of marines and sailors from the American warship Atlanta, who established a camp near the village of Santa Fe, close to the canal, has caused the greatest excitement, even exceeding that which prevailed during the last revolution or upon the overthrow of Sacasa. The agitation has extended to all classes, who fear that the United States is taking possession of the country and the passive attitude of the government is severely commented upon, even called treacherous.

The explanation of the American officials that they merely landed forces in order to protect the property and works was considered a subterfuge for such warlike preparations as the landing of troops without warning, placing artillery and Hotchkiss guns in position, preparing the place to withstand a seige, bringing to shore a large quantity of supply and camp equipage, seems to indicate a long stay. Crowds from this city went to Santa Fe to see "Los Americanitos," as the invaders are called, and it is feared that unless some precautions are taken or a satisfactory explanation is given serious trouble may arise.

A large deputation of citizens has been chosen to demand an explanation from the government. It was rumored that General Montiel went to Santa Fe to demand an explanation from the American officers there, but this was not generally credited, as it is known that the American minister was closeted with the cabinet for more than an hour. There is a report here that the rest of the Central American governments will protest against this action of the United States. A late rumor is that the United States troops will be withdraw.

NEW YORK, June 13.—Tom Roe has begun his race to San Francisco on a bicycle against time. He was started from the Barrett House, Broadway and Forty-third street, by George H. Dickenson, editor of the Daily American.

HARRISON'S VISIT

To the Great Columbian Show at Jackson Park.

THE EX-PRESIDENT LOOKS IT OVER

And Says It Is a Marvel—Received by the People With Cheers—Eulalie Also Takes Another Run Down to the Show and Sees Some Queer People—Spanish Building Opened—The Great Gathering of Philanthropists.

CHICAGO, June 13.—The arrival of ex-President Harrison, Mrs. McKee, "Baby" McKee (now quite a boy), Miss Dimmick and Miss Swan (members of the president's Indianapolis household) was the feature of the day at the World's fair grounds, with the added attraction of the presence there on a sort of go-as-you-please visit of the Infanta, and the attendance reached

SPAIN'S UNIQUE BUIDING.

75,972 paid admissions. The ex-president went into the park in a carriage as the guest of President T. W. Palmer, of the national commission. He was driven to the Administration building, where he held a reception of World's fair officials and then, the time being noon, sat down to an elaporate luncheon, but albeit a very informal one.

The People Recognize Him.

The ex-president's face is too well-known for him to go anywhere "incog," and as soon as the carriage was inside the grounds he was recognized, and cheered wherever seen. As he entered the Administration building there was a vigorous clapping of hands and waving of handkerchiefs. The ex-president acknowledged the compliment by removing his hat and bowing. During the afternoon Mr. Harrison visited a number of the buildings. He said he was surprised and more than pleased at the grandeur and beauty of the "White City." While on the grounds the ex-president was driven through the park and given a ride on a launch through the lagoons. He left the grounds about 5 p. m.

Eulalie Keeps 'Em Moving.

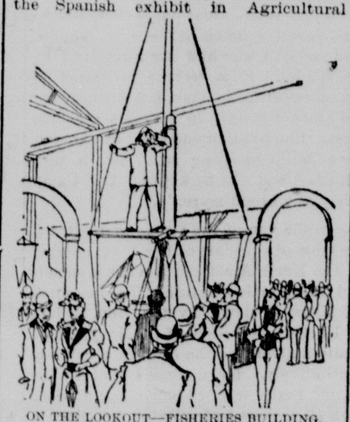

Eulalie was like the wind that "bloweth where it listeth." Nobody knew where to expect her next, but her face is becoming known and wherever she went there were crowds who had one object in life and that was to see her. She and her suite went to the park in a yacht and returned in a tally-ho. It was noon when she reached there, and she was wheel-chaired to the White House Inn where luncheon was taken in a private room. After remaining an hour and a half in the fac simile of the inn made famous in the Pickwick Papers of Dickens, the chair pushers pushed their way through lines of people to the model of the cliff dwellers' habitation in the Ethnological section of the park. Professor Dutnam, of Cambridge, chief of the department, received the party.

Sees Some Peculiar People.

While here the Infanta witnessed a novel entertainment. The nearly extinct tribe of Quackuhl Indian braves, squaws and pappooses from Vancouver Island, British Columbia, danced out of their cave resplendant in trappings, head-dress and blanket robes. For half an hour these queer aborigines went throught their gytations and contortions for the edification and amusement of the Infanta, who smiled and chatted and received enlightenment from Professor Putnam. Dances of war and peace, the mosquito dance and other performances with base drum and baby rattle accompaniment were given until the princess got tired. The dwelling was filled with people who had paid their way in to see the princess and they followed the party in the chairs to the convent of La Rabida.

Spanish Day at the Fair.

Today is "Spanish Day." The royal party went to the grounds about noon and will remain until late in the evening. The Spanish section in Manufactures hall was opened at 2 o'clock by the Infanta and the Spanish exhibit in Agricultural hall shortly after. From there the party went over to the foreign quarter where the Spanish building was opened. There was absolutely no ceremony, the Infanta having given it out that nothing of an official nature would be agreeable to her.

A remarkable collection of ancient Greek portraits was opened for public view in the central hall of the Old Vienna village in the Midway Plaisance. Some of these pictures are 2,000 years old and were only recently discovered in Egypt, where since the third century B. C. the higher ranks of the population had adopted Greek culture.

TALK OF A GREAT PROBLEM.

The World's Conference of Charities and Corrections Begins.

Of all the gatherings which have or will take place during the World's fair under the auspices of the World's Congress Auxiliary, none has a more practical or important reason for existence than that which has opened in the hall of Columbus at the Art Institute. Whatever may be said of the value of the discussions on woman suffrage, temperance and other subjects that have claimed attention so far, that of relief of distress and correcting human vice must be one to bear fruit that is equal in its blessings to humanity to any other, and the field is as large and as accessible to human endeavor—if not more so—as any of them.

Rev. Fred H. Wines, vice president, was in the chair when the meeting was called to order, and the first business was the welcome by President Bonney and Mrs. Potter Palmer, which was followed by memorials of the late ex-President Hayes, who would have presided if death had not stepped in. Among those present were: Robert Treat Paine, of Boston; Mrs. James Flower, of Chicago, the lady representative of the national conference; Mrs. Mary Spencer, a leading member of the conference from California; M. L. Brueyoe, of France, president of the International Society for the Study of Questions of Public Relief; Michel Kazarine, Russian commissioner to the World's fair and a delegate from the General Administration of Prisons in Russia, and several other foreign delegates.

An oration on "The Problem of Charity," by Dr. Francis G. Peabody, professor of Christian ethics in Harvard university, was an interesting feature of the session. In it Dr. Peabody dealt with the great problem in a broad and comprehensive manner, presenting the various phases of it that confront society, particularly in all large cities where the poor and unfortunate gather in such great numbers, and the best remedies to be applied, in a clear and lucid way. Other short addresses were made by several foreign delegates, who told of the work being done in their respective countries.

At the session in the evening at the same hall there were addresses by Robert Treat Paine, Professor Charles R. Henderson, Ansley Wilcox; Charles Booth, of England; M. Alexis Chevalier, of France; Goldwin Smith, of Canada, and others. During the week the public treatment of pauperism, care of neglected children, hospital care of the sick, training of nurses, dispensary work, first aid to the injured, commitment, detention, care and treatment of the insane, prevention and suppression of crime, and punishment and reformation of criminals, study of sociology and the care and training of feebleminded children are the subjects to be taken up and discussed.

THE PRINTERS FOREGATHER.

Opening of the International Typographical Convention.

Not connected with the World's fair officially, but meeting here principally because this is World's fair year, is the International Typographical convention. The convention is well attended, and was welcomed to the city in a characteristic speech by Mayor Harrison. He said in part that the printers made and unmade men. "When I was abroad writing letters one day I composed something which I thought particularly good. I was in a poetic frenzy, my eye rolling, and tried to describe the sun as it set in all its glory. By a conspiracy of the typo and the proof-reader it appeared 'son' in the paper, and as I had a young son with me the poetry was all knocked out of the passage. I also wrote a book which should have brought me undying fame, but the printer and the proof-reader prevented it reaching a second edition."

He referred to the fact that printers were principally "night hawks" and said that fact made it hard to close the saloons at midnight, for when he was mayor a delegation of printers urged him to let several saloons stay open all night. "One violation of law leads to another. You fellows are up late at night and are prone to run around, but be moral if you can while in Chicago. If you should get into trouble during your stay in the city you will want the help of the mayor more then than you do now. I will sign any bridewell petition you may need. This is not because I love you so much, but because I fear you, gentlemen."

The convention got to work in the afternoon. Secretary-Treasury Wines' report showed a prosperous financial condition. This year's receipts were $127,764 and including the balance of 1892 a total fund of $146,549 was the result. The outgo was $120,984, leaving a balance of $25,564. Out of a total fund of $64,005 the executive council used $48,467, leaving a balance of $15,538.

The trustees of the Childs-Drexel Home for Union Printers at Colorado Springs in the reports of their various committees give an exhaustive showing of the good work done. The total funds for the year, including the 1892 balance, were $41,954.82, and the expenditures $24,223,38, leaving a balance of $17,731.44. During the first year fifty-one inmates were admitted, thirty of whom were consumptives. Ten deaths from this malady and one from pneumonia have occurred.

A Roman Catholic Shrine Burned.

KANKAKEE, Ill., June 13.—The French Roman Catholic church, at St. Anne, Kankakee county, has been struck by lightning and burned. Next to the famous church at St. Anne de Beaupre in Canada this church was the most famous resort of pilgrims in America. Thousands annually gathered here during the month of June to worship. Large numbers of crippled and sick came on St. Anne's day and gathered around the holy shrine said to contain a portion of the body of the saint. Many wonderful cures have been alleged.

Criminal Explosion of Dynamite.

ANTWERP, June 18.—Great excitement was occasioned throughout the city by an explosion that occurred in front of the residence of the public prosecutor. The force of the explosion was very great, and all the windows in the house of the public prosecutor and other houses in the vicinity were smashed to atoms. It was concluded that the outrage was the work of some criminal who had a grudge against the public prosecutor, and who had resorted to dynamite as a means to gratify his desire for revenge.

German Pythians in Session.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 13.—Two hundred and fifty delegates from the different German Knights of Pythias lodges in the country are in session here for the improvement of their branch of Pythianism. The most important subject under discussion is the German ritual question. The supreme lodge decreed that rituals should be printed only in English, to which the German members, of whom there are about 25,000, objected. The convention will seek to take measures to reinstate the German ritual.

Likely to Be Cruel Sport.

Colonel Cody could put himself at a very much better enterprise than that of encouraging the cowboy race which is to take place to the World's fair. It is not in the least likely that a race run by cowboys of several nationalities, all of them the wildest men of their type, will be signalized by any great amount of humanity. Indeed the chances are that the horses will simply be run beyond their strength. Such a race is in great contrast to a race between trained horses, whose speed is a matter of fine calculation, and to whom the whip is seldom touched. The race of the cowboys it is very much more than likely will contain every possible feature of brutality.

It may be characteristic of a portion of the west, but the people at the fair do not want to see everything that is characteristic of this country, but only that which is best as well as that which is characteristic. It is to be hoped that officers of the humane society will be on the ground, and that they will see that there is no slaughter of horses. We want to leave that sort of thing to Germany—which does it well.—Omaha World-Herald.

The Progress of Socialism.

The progress of socialism is making the Duke of Cambridge a sadder—it could not of course make him a wiser—man. It was very sad, he said at a charity dinner, to think that the masses were led to believe that they could benefit themselves by pulling down the classes.

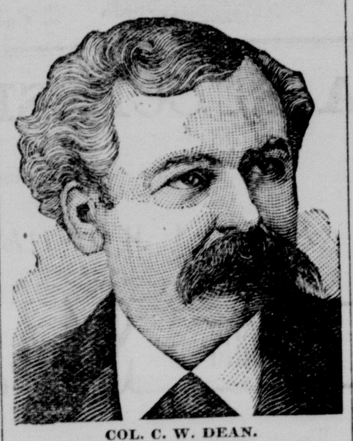

In this world, continued his royal highness, of course it was impossible for all of us to be on a level, for if all were made equal one day some would be superior on the morrow. Fortunately the world was governed and ought to be governed by common sense, and he hoped it would always continue to be.

But the duke forgets two things. The first is that it is quite possible to imagine a new order of society under which those who "would be superior on the morrow" would be so in virtue of merit and not of birth. And the second is that under the existing order of society, though proved capacity can often ascend, no effective means—as Professor Huxley somewhere laments—has yet been found for making proved incapacity descend.—Westminster Gazette.

There are 60,000 Bohemians in the chief American cities—25,000 of them in Chicago, 10,000 in Cleveland, 8,000 in New York, 2,300 in St. Louis and 1,400 in Milwaukee.

Russia and the Asiatic Peoples.

The Russians, semi-Asiatic by origin, in mode of life and in thought, are really more to the Asiatic than, for example, the English and the French, who owing to their higher standard of civilization are frequently hindered in intercourse with the foreign elements subjected to their rule.—Vamberg in National Review.

ROBBERY BAFFLED

Attempt to Loot a Train in Omaha.

BUT THE UNEXPECTED HAPPENS,

And the Road Agent Takes to the Woods, Much Surprised—A Fraud Uncovered at West Superior—He "Saved" a Train in Hope of Profit—Sontag, the California Bandit, Shot—Dev'lsh Child Murder.

OMAHA, June 13.—The Missouri Pacific express No. 2, bound for St. Louis, was held up by a masked man at the Leavenworth street crossing, within the city limits, but the robber was scared away before he obtained anything. The first intimation of any trouble was when a man climbed over the tender and Engineer Simacum was ordered at the point of a pistol to slow up. Orders were then given to pull ahead six car lengths to a place opposite a cornfield, where it is supposed that other confederates were concealed, who intended to board the train when it came to a full stop.

The Robber Strikes a Snag.

The engineer obeyed, but when the point was reached the light of a switch engine was seen just ahead on a siding. The robber evidently did not expect this turn of affairs, as it is a very unusual occurrence for the railroad to employ an engine in that part of the yards so late at night and immediately jumped off the train and put across the country. Passengers on the train had no idea what had happened and the trainmen were glad enough to escape without further molestation. No clew to the whereabouts of the man have yet been found and it is not known whether there was any considerable money aboard or not. Two years ago a similar hold-up occurred within a quarter of a mile of the same place.

FOUND OUT TO BE A FRAUD.

The Man Who "Saved" a Train on the South Shore Road.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., June 13.—It turns out that the man who "saved" the South Shore train from the machinations of wreckers a few days ago was not a switchman, but a fraud. He is a homesteader, and had a scheme to make a little money. He has confessed that he tore up the rail himself and flagged the train in the hope of getting a good reward for saving the passengers from wreck and robbery. He gets no reward, but has a first-class chance of getting a term in prison.

Devilish Crime by a Boy.

CHAMBERLAIN, S. D., June 13.—One of the most devilish and unnatural deeds ever perpetrated in the state has been committed in Charles Mix county. The 12-year-old son of Mrs. Effiin, a farmer's wife, was left in charge of his half sister, 2 years old. Because the baby became fretful the inhuman boy got down a shotgun and shot the little one in the head, instantly killing it.

A Man We Can Well Spare.

VISALIA, Cal., June 13.—John Sontag, the notorious train bandit who had been hunted for by officers for months without success has been caught at last. Officers surprised him at a cabin in the mountains and shot him and he may die. His partner Evans escaped. Officer Jackson was shot in the leg, which has been amputated.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 13.—Master in Chancery Fishback has held the mortgage given by the Hopper Lumber company, of Michigan City, to the Sutton Manufacturing company, of Detroit, void. The mortgage was for $20,000. J. S. Hopper was president of both companies. The lumber company failed for $110,000 last July.

Boat Upset and Men Drowned.

WORLD'S FAIR CONCERNS FAIL.

And Charge Their Troubles to a W. C. T. U. Organ.

CHICAGO, June 13.—Judge Tuthill has appointed Charles T. Beal receiver for the Harvey World's Fair hotel and the Harvey Home Improvement company. The appointment was made at the suit of Walter T. Mills, the principal stockholder in both companies. The assets of the Home Improvement company are $141,500 and the liabilities $99,000. The assets of the Hotel and Entertainment company are $85,000 and the liabilities $90,000.

The cause of the failure of the two concerns is charged by Mills to be an article in The Union Signal, the official organ of the W. C. T. U., on May 28. This article charged Mills with irregularities in conducting the World's fair hotel scheme. It was built by subscriptions to profit-sharing certificates which were subscribed for entirely by temperance people and those who read The Union Signal. The result was, Mills charges, that the article destroyed public confidence in the scheme, and as both were in a measure dependent on each other both have failed.

Dear Sir:—A sample of Krause's Headache Capsules was left in my husband's office a few days since, and as I am subject to headaches—neuralgia, nervous, and in fact every other kind—he thoughtfully brought the sample box home. The very next day I had a chance to try them and one capsule relieved me in less than half an hour. Next day I was attacked again, took another capsual with the same delightful result, in less than half an hour my head felt as well as ever, with no bad feeling as the after result, I have had these tertible headaches for twenty years, and have tried every remedy I ever heard of, but nothing I have ever taken has cured or relieved me as QUICKLY as KRAUE'S HEADACHE CAPSULES. The lower 120 acers is now the property of the McWethey brothers engaged in the milk delivery business and considering the short distance from our city the price per acre $75, was very reasonable.

—The cowboy race from Chadron, Nebraska, to Chicago, is to start this evening at five o'clock. The Humane Societies all along the route have determined to do all in their power to stop this inhuman abuse of horseflesh, and it is probable that the riders will come in contact with of the officers of the law many times before they reach the World's Fair city. The public is greatly worked up over this race and all who have any feeling for man's best friend, the horse, want to see the race stopped. It is said that a change has been made in the route, to throw the officers off the track.

BUSINESS MEN'S MEETING.

At the meeting at the court house last evening a full and candid discussion of the college matter was had, and the general public for the first time understood in detail the different propositions that have been discussed between the executive committee of the Business Men's Association and the managers of the college; and all present were thoroughly convinced that as a business proposition our people could not afford to drop the matter. The offers made on the part of the managers of the college are extremely fair and honorable. Short-sighted indeed would be the business men of this thriving city should they fail to accept the offers made. We cannot believe our people will fail, after understanding the situation, to raise the money necessary to carry out the promises made by the committee. In order, however, to do this all must do something. A committee of our business men are now making a canvass to raise the money. Let none refuse to subscribe. Success in this enterprise means additional prosperity to our city. It means that within a few weeks there will be in course of construction a building to cost about $35,000, on the campus in front of the main college building. This building will be of modern style and will add much to the beauty of our city. It will give room to the 500 additional students which the managers of the college are confident they can secure. Let every one, no matter what his calling or occupation may be, give his just proportion. Shoulder to shoulder we have fought together in the past for the success of our city; let us not divide or fail in our duty now. Look forward and not backward. Our city is the pride of all. Let not the prosperity that now blesses our city be turned backward. Do your duty, do it willingly, and thus encourage the committee, which will continue its work until Thursday evening, when this matter must be finally determined.

The National Revenues.

Information of the very first consequence to the American business world comes from Washington, and on trustworthy authority. It is from Edward Atkinson who is essentially a free-trader and does not believe in the McKinley tariff. He is forced to admit, however, that the requirements of the revenues are so great and the prudence demanded in any step affecting the business conditions of country that it will not be practicable to enter on a general revision of the tariff.

This is supposed to represent the feeling of the administration. The attitude of congress has yet to be reckoned with. The opinion given, however, is well considered, and it is to be hoped that it is true. A general overhauling of the tariff would force many hardships on existing industries and probably produce prolonged disaster and depression. If it is not to take place it is a very reassuring fact. —Rockford Register

The Geary Law.

The Geary Chinese act is one of the most inhuman acts that ever were placed upon any statute book.—Boston Herald.

This is a very highly exaggerated statement. The act merely requires Chinese residents to register their names, as those of Americans resident in China are registered. No Chinese who obeys it will be expelled from this country or subjected to any trouble whatever. The penalty for disobeying it is far milder than the Chinese penalty for disobeying any edict. It is not a law for the expulsion of the Chinese, or that restricts any right of the Chinese, or that inflicts any wrong upon the Chinese, or that ought to disturb the Chinese, or that would disturb them in the least if they took the trouble to give heed to it.

A law of the same kind, applicable to Americans and other foreigners resident in France, was adopted by the French chambers last month. The new French "alien law" provides that any foreigner arriving at or living in any place in France and desiring to engage in any industry or profession shall within a week register his name at the prefecture of police, make a declaration of his intention and furnish satisfactory proof of his identity, after which he shall receive a certificate which he must retain, and which, in the event of his removal to any other place must be vised within two days. The provisions of the French law are fully as rigorous as those of our Chinese registration law, and it has been strictly enforced since its enactment a few weeks ago.—New York Sun.

If Cholera Comes.

It is well to keep in the medicine chest, or where they may easily be found, a bottle of the spirits of camphor and one of the old standard remedy known as the "Sun mixture," the prescription published by the New York Sun under official direction in the time of the great cholera epidemic. The medicine is not expensive and can be bought of any druggist in country, town or city. Experienced bacteriologists say that five drops of camphor in a small glass of brandy is the best medicine to give until the arrival of a physician. For little children there are camphor pellets sufficiently sweet to be palatable. The use of these pellets is said to be an excellent "ounce of prevention" for those acting as nurses or otherwise exposed to contagion. To absorb disagreeable odors in a sickroom nothing is better than cascarilla bark sprinkled upon hot coals. For an ordinary disinfectant rosin is excellent, but care should be taken not to place too much at a time upon the fire. —Ladies' Home Journal.

The Kaiser's Contest With His People.

Our Berlin correspondent says he has no reason to change his opinion that the next reichstag will reject the military bill. He has been traveling a good deal and ought to be in touch with the people. The "classes" favor the government policy, but the "masses" do not.

Here is the danger to imperialism, as we have before pointed out. The men who influence the masses, like Richter and Bebel, are keen, clever and audacious. It is well known that socialism and democracy are making giant strides in the fatherland, all the more reason why Emperor William should be cautious, just and above all constitutional in his acts.

Our correspondent believes that the kaiser will make the unpopular bill a law by his ipse dixit. Then will come the tug of war on the financial question—how is the money to be raised to pay for the increase in the army?

There is no getting over the fact that the army is quite large enough for present purposes. The Grand Duke of Baden recently said that experience proved one obtains better results from the excellence of an army than from its quantity. This is another fact hard to get over.—New York Herald.
